

Contents

9	Prefaces
23	Introduction
35	In search of the past: the beginnings of a dialogue Confronting the past 38
41	The recent past
45	The Slusznny and Suchowolski families The Slusznny family 45 — The Suchowolski family 56
61	A step back in time
73	On the run The slow but implacable construction of the Final Solution to the Jewish Question 88
112	Two families, two worlds Regina's story 113 — Charel and Anna's house, a safe haven 122 — From a world of trust into the unknown 129 — Weekends at Anna and Charel's: a perpetual return home 131 — Georges' story 140 — Memories around the table 163
173	D-Day
175	Joy and sorrow Exuberant joy, followed by great disillusionment 176 — Georges Sommers becomes Georges Suchowolski again 183 — No one was left 191 — 1949, the year of life and death 192 — From darkness to light 194
197	Two hidden children united Pledging fidelity for life 202 — The passion and the meaning of their lives 206 — Go forth and multiply 208 — Building a future with strength 210
214	In search of the past Clémentine, Édouard and Ferdinand Boclinville 215 — Irène and Arlette Draily 217 — Germaine, Léon and Jean-Marie Mottet 221 — Auschwitz 222

229	The last anchor point, the years of farewell
235	The movements of our lives A new start 235 — War victims aid committee 236 — WIZO Federation 236 — L'Enfant Caché asbl 237
242	From generation to generation Roland and Sabine 242
251	Postface
252	Appendices Righteous Among the Nations 252 — Message from Mr Georges Suchowolski 257 — Ceremony in honour of the Righteous Among the Nations 258 — Speech by Peter Van Dijck 261
264	Testimonies from schools St John's International School 265 — European School Brussels 2 266 — International School of Boston, Lycée International de Boston 268
271	Bibliography
277	Notes